Military Affairs Group Seeks Discharge of Men Who Suffer Hardships.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The administration's military service extension resolution won a measure of bi-partisan support in the house today. As Rep. Walter G. Andrews of New York, ranking Republican member of the military affairs committee, said it was necessary in view of the critical international situation.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Administration leaders believed today that house passage of a resolution extending army service had been virtually assured by threatening international developments.

Speaker Sam Rayburn convened the house at 10 a. m.—two hours earlier than usual—in an effort to obtain a final vote tonight.

The leaders felt that the warning of Secretary of State Cordell Hull that failure of congress to enact the army service extension proposal would have "an exceedingly bad" psychological effect on this government's influence in international affairs had won it new votes.

Hull gave his warning at a press conference as this government's diplomatic relations with Japan and the Vichy French government reached a new crisis in connection with reports of Axis plans for further expansion.

Chairman Andrew J. May (D., Ky.) said that the house military affairs committee majority would offer amendments to the resolution requiring the war department to discharge men who would suffer undue hardship by remaining in service, unless their dismissal would affect defense plans adversely.

The senate resolution provided that the secretary of war "may" discharge hardship cases so long as their discharge did not conflict with the interests of defense.

May said that the committee also would ask the house to approve the senate provision which would extend the service of draftees, national guardsmen, reservists and enlisted regulars for 18 months. The house resolution would retain the troops for the duration, but leaders conceded that there is little chance of passing that version.

They appeared willing to accept any extension measure, even for only a year, in order that they can take the resolution to conference, where an attempt would be made to work out a lengthier term.

Work Out Curb on 'Dollar Down' Buying on FDR Order

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Easy payment plans felt the impact of defense requirements today, as the administration acted to curb the nation's $10,000,000,000 installment credit business.

The announced purpose of the curb was two-fold:

To discourage consumers from buying many things containing materials that otherwise would be conserved for defense production needs; and

To counteract inflationary tendencies that arise when the demand for certain goods is greater than the supply.

President Roosevelt, in an executive order issued late yesterday, directed that the control system be set up to regulate the huge credit business now being transacted through the country's banks, stores and personal finance companies.

The order instructed the federal reserve system to formulate and administer the regulations under a World war statute which carries criminal penalties as high as 10 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for violations.

There was no immediate indication of what the rules would be, but Mr. Roosevelt specifically authorized such measures as requiring down-payments where they are not now required: requiring bigger down-payments than now necessary; requiring larger weekly or monthly installments, and reduce the time such payments may run.

Credit contracts already existing will not be subject to the new control system.

Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the federal reserve board said that this meant "automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators, ironers, vacuum cleaners and many other goods."

These, he pointed out, required the same materials as the production of defense supplies.

Armored Forces Report Gains In Ukraine Sector

Russians On Dnieper Front Imperiled, Says Berlin; Moscow Claims Gains In Center of Line; Vichy Puts New Power In Darlan's Hands.

(By United Press)

BERLIN—German armed forces pounding into the rich Ukraine have at some points reached the shores of the Black sea, a Nazi military spokesman said today.

The German offensive into the Ukraine was not mentioned by the high command's daily communique, which reported aerial attacks on Moscow and said operations on the eastern front were proceeding satisfactorily.

A military spokesman, however, later reported the advance to the Black sea shores, presumably by panzer units. The Nazi forces had been developing a pincers movement around Kiev and at the same time had thrust between Kiev and Odessa in an effort to advance down the Bug river and thus isolate the Black sea port.

The spokesman claimed that the "lower reaches" of the Dnieper river had been "practically rendered useless" as a line of communication for the armies of Soviet Marshal Semyon Budenny because they were "to a considerable extent" dominated by German artillery.

(This would indicate that the Germans were striking east of Odessa, probably in the Nikolaev sector, where the Rivers Bug and Dnieper meet the sea.)

German, Italian and Hungarian forces are in control of railroads which have put the whole Russian transport system in the south Ukraine out of action, the spokesman said.

He claimed that the whole Dnieper river "bend" northwest of Nikolaev was now untenable for the Red army.

The points at which the Germans reportedly reached the Black sea were not specified, although it had been indicated that they were headed for the Nikolaev sector.

(The Germans could have reached the Black sea coast west of Odessa, thus failing to carry out their encirclement plan, but Berlin had not previously indicated any operations in that direction. London had said earlier that advance German units might be within 40 miles of Nikolaev, but that such forces were, comparatively weak.)

The Germans admitted severe resistance by the Russians but said they were being forced back steadily with big losses in men and material as the Luftwaffe pounded at enemy lines and columns.

The raid on Moscow caused large fires and explosions, a communique said. Other reports indicated great aerial activity at several points. Dispatches from the Ukranian front indicated that large Russian forces were succeeded-

Lands $531,000 Army Tire Order

3 Cabinet Heads Meet Hurriedly

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of Navy Frank Knox conferred briefly today with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. None of the officials indicated the topics under discussion.

The conference followed receipt of dispatches which some authorities regarded as indicating a quickening of the crisis both in the western Pacific and in the Mediterranean-African area.

These dispatches concerned Japanese opposition to American supplies to the Soviet Union through the Pacific port of Vladivostok and realignments in the Vichy government giving Admiral Jean Francois Darlan, who is unfriendly to Britain, full charge of France's armed forces.

None of the conferees in Hull's office nor any of their assistants would comment on whether these news events had any bearing on the meeting.

Other responsible government officials, however, foresaw renewed strain on Franco-American relations as a result of the Vichy decision to vest supreme military power in Darlan. They regarded this development as indicative that Vichy was ready for closer collaboration with Germany, even at the risk of worsening relations with the United States.

Fred Hunt Named Warden at McAlester Penitentiary.

M'ALESTER, Okla.—(AP)—Stern Fred Hunt, promoted from warden of Granite reformatory, took over at McAlester penitentiary today as funeral services were held for his predecessor, Jess Dunn, slain in a bloody Sabbath break.

Hunt, who once attracted national attention by dressing recalcitrant reformatory inmates in lace panties and seating them on a platform to receive the jeers of their fellows, was named to his new post last night by Gov. Leon C. Phillips.

Hunt never has lost a prisoner nor had a major break attempt during his six and one-half years as warden at Granite.

PLANT HERE TO EQUIP TROOP TRUCKS FOR U.S.

Mansfield Tire Gets Plans Under Way To Start on New Defense Contract.

Mansfield Tire and Rubber company today received a $531,000 contract from war department for heavy tires for army trucks.

Announcement of the contract was made by George W. Stephens, president of the company. It is the largest single defense contract yet awarded a Mansfield firm, and brings the total of defense contracts now held by the company to more than a million dollars.

Largest previous defense order received by a Mansfield firm was one for $340,000, for shell fuse primers, awarded to the Ohio Brass company.

Mansfield Tire has already completed one defense order of $258,000, and is now working on another totalling $330,000.

Stephens said the new order would be put in production as quickly as production schedules could be arranged.

He said he was unable to estimate immediately how long it would take to complete the new order. It calls for production of more than 25,000 heavy duty tires for army motorized equipment.

Obviously pleased at the receipt of the order, Stephens could not resist another reference to a story written by a New York reporter, who said after visiting Mansfield, that the city's major industries didn't have much enthusiasm for defense orders.

"I guess this proves we're ready and willing to make anything for the government that we can make," Stephens said.

He added that the company had bid on more than a million dollars worth of defense work, and that he was going to Washington tonight to check on the status of other orders on which the company had bid.

SHOO! SHOO!

Wandering Hens Back Home After Trip To The Hoosegow.

KANSAS CITY—(AP)— The Duncan Dallam's chickens are back home, still confused about the whole thing.

An irate neighbor shooed them into a taxicab and whisked them off to police headquarters.

Bullard booked the fowls and notified their owner.

They rode home in the family car, hours later, pledged to stay in their own backyard.

Dog Foils Store Robbery Here

MRS. MARY UNDERWOOD AND BUSTER

Woman Ignores Robbers, Tosses Money-Bag to Dog

'Buster' Catches Bag In Mouth After Mistress Gives It a Toss As Thief Enters Store, Demands Money.

Three robbers, sought by Mansfield police, must be convinced today that the "stick-up" business is going to the dogs.

One of the robbers entered the grocery store of Mrs. Mary Underwood at Mulberry street and Glessner avenue today at 7 a. m. just as Mrs. Underwood was starting to empty a money-bag containing $35 into the change drawer. He was not armed.

Walking behind the counter, he ordered "Hand over that bag, sister."

Instead of obeying, Mrs. Underwood quickly threw the money-bag over the counter to "Buster," her pet dog, who caught it in his mouth.

After grabbing Mrs. Underwood by the throat, the intruder eyed Buster and then decided to give up the task of separating the dog from the money. His decision was spurred on by Buster who sprang to the attack.

The robber left hurriedly with only a dollar's worth of pennies which Mrs. Underwood had emptied from the bag before the robbery attempt.

Mrs. Underwood told Mansfield police that she had noticed three men sitting in a car in front of the store when she arrived early this morning. She said she thought they might be waiting for a fellow-worker who resided in the vicinity.

Only one of the trio entered the store. Mrs. Underwood was able to furnish police a description of him but not of his two companions. The description of the robber and the car was forwarded to state highway patrolmen and Richland county authorities who began a search immediately.

In the meantime, Buster, who is ten years old, enjoys a place of honor in the Underwood home.

London Reports Famed Legless RAF Ace Missing.

LONDON— (INS) —Wing Commander Douglas Bader, famed legless ace of the Royal Air Force, is missing, it was announced today.

Acting Flight Lieut. Eric Lock, leading RAF pilot with more than 30 victories to his credit, also was reported missing. Lock is 21.

Bader is a Canadian. He holds the distinguished Flying Cross for his exploits.

He lost both legs in an air accident in 1931 only a year after he had received a permanent commission with the British air force.

VOTE HERE TO BE LESS THAN 2,500, BELIEF

Election Booth Workers Have Easy Day as Only Trickle of Voters Enter.

With only a few persons turning out to vote, it was predicted today that less than 2,500 of the 21,000 registered voters in Mansfield would take part in the city's quietest primary election in years.

Democrats had only four contests to decide while Republicans had none.

Surprising about the election today was not only the lightness of the vote but also the unnecessary display of Republican strength.

Forty per cent of 138 votes cast before noon were Republican. In the strongly Democratic Fifth and Sixth wards, the Democrats were running only 3 to 1 over the Republicans.

Voting was so light that primary workers turned to bridge, pinochle, working cross-word puzzles, reading books and listening to radio programs.

An idea of how few voters appeared at the polls may be gathered by these reports taken shortly after 10:30 a. m.

First Ward, Precinct B — Republicans 2, Democrats 3, with 435 voters registered; Third ward, Precinct C, Rep. 4, Dem. 4, registration, 300; Fifth ward, Precinct D, Rep. 3, Dem. 6, registration, 420; Fourth ward, Precinct E, Rep. 6, Dem. 6, registration 400; Sixth ward, Precinct A, Rep. 3, Dem. 9, registration 400, and

CHECKS PLANTS

Labor Board Finds Majority of Steel Workers Belong to CIO.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A check of 17 plants of the Republic Steel corp. disclosed that 28,482 out of 40,585 employes are members in good standing of the CIO's Steel Workers' Organizing committee, the labor board asserted in a preliminary report today.

The board is making the check —largest ever attempted — in conformance with an agreement under which the board will determine the validity of SWOC's claims to represent a majority of employes in certain plants for collective bargaining.

The check is being made by comparing the union's membership cards with company payrolls. Republic has agreed to negotiate a signed contract with SWOC for all plants where its majority membership is established.

CALLS ON JAPS TO MAKE CHOICE

Britain Asserts Nippon Can Have War or Peace—Whichever It Wants.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Great Britain today bluntly called upon Japan to choose—by her own future actions—between war and peace.

In the strongest statement yet made by any British spokesman since the Far Eastern crisis began to assume a menacing form, an authoritative source warned Japan to keep out of Thailand and added:

"If Japan wants war there will be war.

"If Japan wants peace there will be peace."

The Nipponese empire, he added, alone will be to blame if war comes in the Pacific.

The attitude of this government, the spokesman said, was clearly expounded by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden on Aug. 6. Addressing the house of commons on that date, Eden stressed the traditional British policy of friendship with Japan but warned "that any action that would threaten the integrity or independence of Thailand would be a matter of concern to this country, particularly as a threat to the security of Singapore."

"I hope," Eden added, "these words will be heeded."

(Editor's Note: On the same date, United States Secretary of State Cordell Hull formally warned Japan that any aggressive move against Thailand would be a matter of grave concern to the United States.)

Since that time, the British spokesman added, declarations

GET PAROLES

Former Commissioners of Athens County Released From Prison.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Ira Whitmore, 47, and Walter McCombs, 57, former Athens county commissioners convicted of soliciting bribes early in 1940, were paroled today from the London prison farm. They will be released Oct. 1.

Whitmore and McCombs entered the penitentiary on April 5, 1940, to serve one to 10 years. They were convicted of soliciting a $300 bribe in connection with purchase by the county of a 10-ton road roller from the Southern Ohio Equipment Co., Zanesville.

PROBE BEATING

State Investigates Alleged Attack on Liquor Agents.

ASHTABULA, O. — (INS) — An investigation was under way today by state and Ashtabula county authorities in connection with the reported beating of two state liquor agents at a roadhouse near Geneva-on-the-Lake.

It was said the agents, Lester Ritchey, 42, and Frank Davis, 45, of Circleville, were injured when patrons of the tavern attacked them.

Ritchey sustained a fractured jaw and a possible fracture of the skull. Davis received two broken ribs and a lacerated chin.

New York Central Freight Leaves Tracks Near Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD—(AP)—Eighteen cars of a westbound New York Central freight train were derailed at Enon, six miles south of here, early today. No one was injured.

Propeller Plant Strike Slows Up Plane Deliveries

CALDWELL, N. J.—(INS)—Warplane deliveries for the British and United States governments already have been slowed down by the five-day strike of AFL machinists at the Caldwell propeller plant of the Curtiss-Wright corporation, company officials said today.

"What we are losing on production now can never be made up," John O'Hara Harte, public relations manager for the propeller division of Curtiss-Wright, declared. "Hours lost can never be redeemed."

The situation, it was said, is made doubly serious by the fact that none of the propeller-producing plants in the country have a "backlog." The Martin plant at Baltimore, producing medium bombers for England, was one of the units described as affected by the Caldwell shutdown.

Knox Weighs Offer To Turn Kearny Yards Over To Navy

(By Associated Press)

Navy Secretary Knox today weighed an offer by the president of a strikebound New Jersey shipyard to turn over the huge establishment to the navy for immediate operation so that work might be resumed on $493,000,000 worth of naval merchant ship construction.

In advance of a scheduled meeting with L. H. Korndorff, president of the Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock company, Knox withheld any hint of his attitude toward the company official's proposal to give the navy possession of the big plant at Kearny, N. J., where 17,000 workers have been idle since Thursday.

In proposing this drastic step yesterday, Korndorff declared that the strike "involves no issue but the maintenance of the open shop. We are unwilling to abandon the defense of the freedom of the American worker to choose whether he will belong to a union or not."

Peter Flynn, vice president of the CIO local which called the strike, quickly issued a counter-statement in which he declared that the company's "arrogant insistence on the 'open shop' stand exposed as merely another exhibition of the 'dollar patriotism' of the Kearny concern."

Even before Korndorff's offer, a high defense official declared that the navy department had

Barn Burned As Electrical Storm Strikes City, County

A severe electrical and thunder storm, accompanied by high winds, lashed Mansfield and Richland county last night causing thousands of dollars in damage but bringing a break in the threat of another heat wave.

Lightning destroyed a barn near Lexington and struck several places in the city. Sheets of rain accompanied the lightning, knocking down branches and limbs off trees in the city parks and along several streets.

Frank Calver, Lexington, R. D. 1, succeeded in getting 100 chicks out of a burning barn, only to have them run back into the building to perish. Also destroyed was a calf.

Calver organized neighbors into a bucket brigade and although they were unable to save the barn, prevented the flames from spreading to a nearby chicken house.

Fair and cooler weather was predicted for tonight and tomorrow. Scattered showers during the past 24 hours pulled the mercury from a high of 89 degrees down to a low of 67 this morning. Average temperature for the day was 78 degrees, six more than the 16-year average.

Nearly two inches of rainfall was recorded, the greater part coming before midnight. Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that only one complaint of a flooded basement had been received.

The storm was blamed for at least one accident in which two

GEN. JOHNSON: Predicts Reduction In Tax Exemptions

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—So, now Mr. Leon Henderson thinks that shortages in strategic materials may result, as this column has insisted for a long time, in at least a temporary unemployment of possibly 2,000,000 men and, as I understand the press despatches, a closing up of 4,000 to 5,000 establishments of little business men.

I didn't hear the actual comment. I am merely quoting the news. But you ain't heard the half of it. According to Mr. Henderson, as I read the news, this catastrophe was due to the short-sightedness of industrial management. All along the New Dealers, of which he seems to dramatize himself as one, knew it was coming and sought to guard against it.

Horsefeathers! In war, military policy becomes the deciding point of industrial policy.

What is our military policy? Up to three months ago, anybody who had advocated that as the "arsenal of democracy" we should undertake to supply the bloody military tyranny of Soviet Russia would have been laughed out of court.

Now we are to send them 2,000,000 pounds of aluminum which is greater than the voluntary sacrifice of all our kitchen-ware. We are to send them plenty of other things but this is one example.

Beside being a singularly reticent witness, Mr. Henderson, in attempting to put the blame on others for this situation is simply not stating all the facts—to put it mildly.

It is a glib phrase to say "we are the arsenal of democracy"—including Soviet Russia.

But who knows what it means? If it means that we are to supply the whole anti-Axis with arms, O. K., but who told us that in February, when this question of expansion was hot? If we had started then to expand steel production, for example, we would still be a year and a half away from any result.

In such an effort, do we give no consideration to the needs of our own civilian population and the dangers of inflation through shortage, or are we to suffer three and four times the cost of such contributions and four or five times the burden through having nothing with which to supply our own people?

In the scramble for supplies, who represents the daily needs and lives of the American people? Long ago and over and over again this column has pressed this point. It is like pouring water on a duck's back.

There isn't a question in experience or history that the greatest hoarders and hoggers are the military, naval and maritime supply services. Who checks their requirements? What effort has there been to "cut our cost to suit our cloth" both in not undertaking to deliver to more customers than we can supply—the whole cock-eyed world—and in curtailing deferable uses at home?

Where has there been any restriction on non-war construction? On the contrary, the new rivers and harbors bill includes the great demands on materials and labor of the St. Lawrence waterway and the Florida ship canal.

From a wealth of experience, I am willing to say that, with a proper conservation and regulation of use, there is no great shortage of either steel or petroleum in this country. We had exactly the same controversy in the World war and, as post-war figures proved, there had been no real shortage.

STATE COUNCIL MAPS CAMPAIGN AGAINST 'BOOM'

Meets With OPM to Study the Dislocation of Normal Industrial Activity.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—State and federal representatives will meet in Columbus Thursday to map an aggressive campaign against the dislocation of normal industrial activity in Ohio by the defense boom which already is throwing Ohio workers out of jobs.

Members of the still unofficial state defense council and officials of the federal office of production management will confer to try to map a plan which will forestall the shutting down of non-defense industries because of lack of raw materials.

State officials said today that need for such a plan is urgent. Claims for unemployment benefits are being filed with the Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation at the rate of 600 daily compared with 450 only a few weeks ago.

The number of claims is expected to increase until and unless non-defense industries can be fitted into the scheme of defense production.

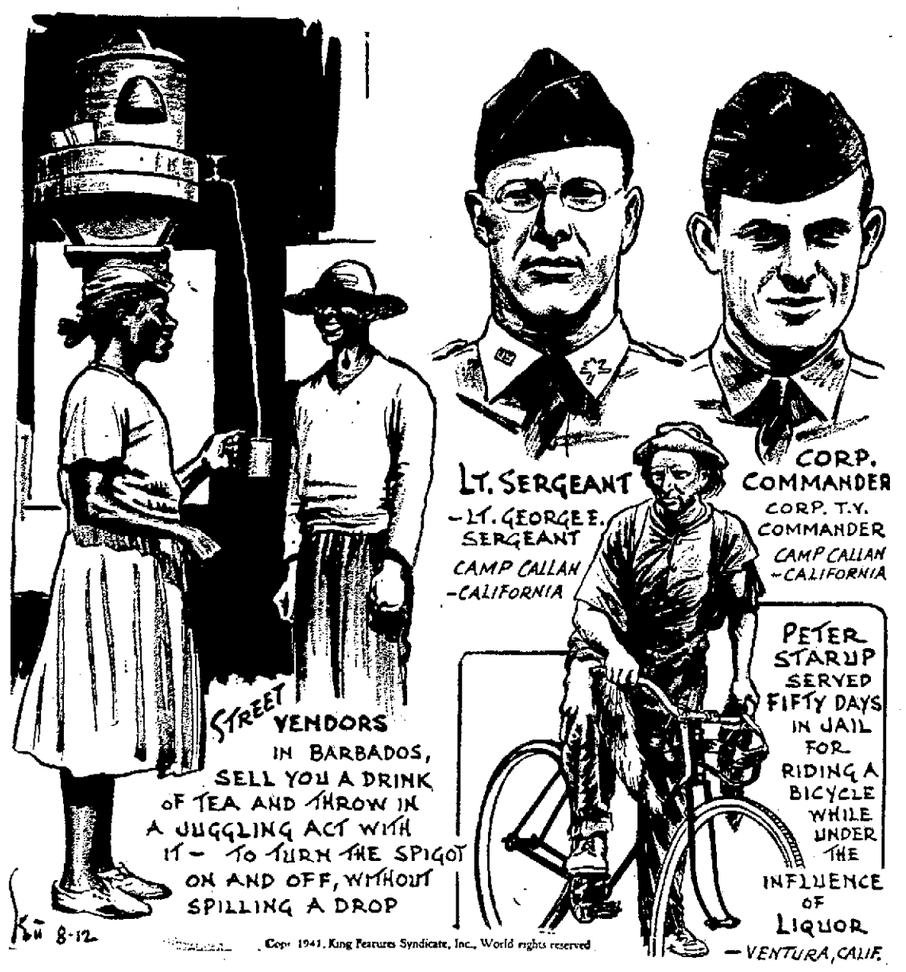

The conference here Thursday will be one of the first to be held as a result of a meeting in Washington on July 31 between OPM Director William S. Knudsen and representatives of the council of State governments. Commerce Director Charles Jones of Ohio attended the national parley as a representative of Governor Bricker.

Jones along with Major Ralph H. Henderson, chairman of the temporary state defense council, and H. C. Atkinson, administration of the Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation, will sit in on the Columbus meeting as state spokesmen.

Representatives of industry and labor have been invited to participate.

A law authorizing the governor to establish a state defense council does not become effective until Aug. 20. One of the first moves of the new council is expected to be establishment of a production committee to tackle the troublesome problem of keeping all Ohio factories running and men at work.

Crafton thinks, however, the papers were placed there to prevent birds or insects from building nests there.

The guests who didn't respond to a 2 a. m. invitation extended by a local dentist the other morning are now heartily kicking themselves. Called out of bed to attend a fish fry, some of them merely attributed the doctor's invitation to the prolonged heat wave and went back to sleep. Those who did put in an appearance had a supper of crappies caught at Mifflin lake a few hours previously by their host and a friend. The fishermen didn't get around to having the party earlier because they said crappies don't start biting until after 10 p. m. Then it took time to get the limit, clean the catch, take the crappies to a local restaurant for frying, and finally round up some friends to share in the spread.

Change it from "It never rains but it pours," to "It never rains but it locks doors," according to Postmaster Herman Homberger. The postmaster saw a Mansfield man idly swinging a bunch of keys in front of a downtown store just before one of yesterday's downpours. He was a picture of nonchalance and indifference until a key hook sprung, and down poured the keys into an open sewer. Homberger believes that with the rain and the rust the key-swinger must be buying a new set of locks today.

SENATE GROUP EYES CHANGES IN TAX BILL

Finance Committee To Vote Today on Treasury Proposals.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Chairman George (D-Ga) of the senate finance committee voiced the opinion today that the committee would vote to reduce personal income tax exemptions to $750 for single persons and $1,500 for married couples, as recommended by the treasury.

Present exemptions allow $800 for single persons and $2,000 for those who are married.

George also said that he expected "some re-adjustment of personal income tax rates" to be made by the committee before it finishes its work on the new $3,236,700,000 tax program already approved by the house. He did not particularize, however.

As the committee convened to hear a new group of witnesses testify on specific sections of the measure, Senator Nye (R-ND) suggested that the present 10 per cent defense tax be matched by a 15 per cent lease-lend supertax to help meet the costs of British aid.

Nye proposed that an additional line be inserted in the federal individual income tax return upon which the taxpayer would compute 15 per cent of his regular tax and add that amount to the total bill.

Few legislators, however, thought Nye would get very far with his idea.

While committee members discussed possible methods of boosting the amount of revenue to be raised by the pending bill, George minimized the likelihood of a general sales tax as was advocated by some witnesses.

Predicting that senate changes would bring the revenue yield from the bill to an amount in excess of $3,500,000,000, George said that the treasury's goal of two-thirds taxation and one-third borrowing to meet federal costs was put forward at a time when anticipated expenditures were lower than is now expected. The treasury has said that the revenues expected from the present bill would be insufficient for the financing on that scale, and has suggested a $5,000,000,000 tax revenue.

Shooting Stars To Be On Display In Sky Tonight

If Mansfielders are lucky they may see another heavenly display of fireworks in the sky tonight. But this time they will be shooting stars instead of high-powered lightning bolts.

Known to laymen as "St. Anthony's Tears" a meteor shower puts in an appearance high in the northern skies about this time each year. Some years they may be seen for several consecutive nights.

The meteor display belong to the Perseus constellation and are known to astronomers as Perseids. Resembling a spray of pinpoint size stars, they can be witnessed to best advantage in the northeast skies about midnight, according to Dr. E. H. Cherrington, jr., of the Perkins observatory staff at Delaware.

An old legend says the falling stars are the tears of St. Anthony, the Egyptian-born Christian monk.

SCHOOLS GIVEN $40,438 FUND

U. S. Promises That Amount For New Equipment For Defense Classes.

Promised $40,438 by the federal government for new shop equipment at Senior high school, the Mansfield board of education late yesterday authorized V. H. Oberlander, head of the Senior high school vocational department, to purchase equipment for the machine and welding shops.

The $40,000 allocation was about $15,000 less than the board sought for machinery and tools to use in defense training courses at the high school shops.

The schools were alloted all the funds they requested for welding equipment and most of the amount they sought for machine shop replacements. They received nothing, however, for automotive and electrical equipment.

One of the first schools in Ohio to offer its shop facilities for national defense training classes, Senior high school has trained hundreds of workers in the past year. Classes have been conducted 24 hours a day for several weeks.

The board yesterday approved the establishing of six defense courses at the National Youth administration training center near Mifflin, starting Sept. 2.

Courses will include auto mechanics, machine shop, welding, sheet metal work, radio and woodworking.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, AUGUST 12, 1941.

Only one person in ten suffers from hayfever—so nothing much is done about cutting the weeds that cause it.

Talk of a fourth term for President Roosevelt has already started—there being no precedent against a fourth term.

An older reader recalls that the first time he heard the current remark, "I don't know what the country is coming to," was just after Cleveland was elected president in 1892.

Save Gas, Tires and Lives

THOSE who were in position to note the traffic congestion on some of Ohio's favorite resort highways Sunday, and long into the night, may wonder that no more than twenty fatalities resulted—and that only twenty-six persons sustained injuries in the Mansfield area.

Seeing a steady procession of cars moving along at high speed, hour after hour, with frequent instances of reckless passing, cutting in and failing to stop at intersections, it is easy to understand why the traffic death toll is mounting and the number of highway accidents increasing.

It is being urged on motorists in eastern states to "Drive more slowly and save gasoline."

Officials interested in the conservation of rubber say: "Slower speed means longer tire wear."

The National Safety Council says excessive speed was the greatest single cause of fatal traffic accidents in the United States last year.

So a timely slogan might be: "Cut down on speed. Save gasoline, tires and LIVES!"

Clouds Hid Meteor Shower

LAST NIGHT'S rain storm and cloudy skies prevented residents of this vicinity from seeing the August meteor shower which has been an unfailing annual event for more than 1,100 years—probably longer, but that's as far back as the record runs.

It appears that on this date, in its journey around the sun, the earth runs through a meteor field which also circles the sun and which has an estimated width of from three million to fifteen million miles.

This meteor shower, known as the Tears of St. Lauwrence, is the surest of all meteor displays visible from the earth—and is also the safest, as it is made up merely of grains of dust which flash brilliantly but are consumed at about sixty miles altitude.

So, while the people of earth go about their daily tasks and carry on their petty wars, Nature goes along in her characteristically dependable way, hurtling one of her smaller planets through space with such regularity as to make such things as meteor showers and other of her wonders definitely predictable—and never neglecting to penalize violations of her laws.

Tagore's Prophecy Recalled

RABINDRANATH TAGORE, who has just died at the age of 80 in Calcutta, India, was one of the world's great men. He was a poet, a musician, an educator, a philosopher. After he received the Nobel prize for literature in 1913 his works were widely translated and became well known in America.

He used the $40,000 prize money to further the work of a school he had founded in India some years before as an experiment in uniting Eastern and Western thought. He traveled in Europe and the United States, lecturing at Oxford and Harvard and many other places. He set more than 3,000 songs to music, produced 60 volumes of prose and poetry in English and Bengali. He was knighted by King George V in 1915 but later resigned in protest against the killing of Indians by British troops at Amritsar.

During a visit to the United States in 1916 he told a newspaper reporter:

"The world is coming together; the strikes and difficulty between capital and labor is one proof that an adjustment is coming, and America will be the market place for all the best ideals."

Today it is hoped his prophecy may prove true, although worse difficulties affecting international and racial relationships as well as capital and labor seem to have heightened and to stand in the way. The life of such a man as Tagore, however, is proof that true civilization does not belong to one people, one region, or one culture.

Safe Convoy Gains Attention

WHEN the world is at peace it is expected that ships can cross the Atlantic safely and without incident. But now the fact that a convoy makes the trip to England, carrying planes, guns, munitions and food to the value of $400,000,000 is big news.

One of the interesting points about it is that "at about the same time troopships carrying the Canadian 3rd Division got safely to Britain."

A few depth charges were dropped in certain spots "just in case," said one of the escort officers. Otherwise, as quietly and peacefully as if in normal times the ships left this side and under British convoy reached safety and usefulness on the other.

This is only a straw in the wind, perhaps. But losses were so heavy for so long a time and the percentage of sinkings so great, that the arrival of one large convoy in safety for ships and cargoes is occasion for thankfulness.

Costly Heat, It Would Seem

AMERICANS are sometimes accused of facing controversies with too much heat and not enough light. But now that heating homes next winter may become a problem, a reader suggests that we use light to give us heat. He thinks we should use all the light we want next winter, and take advantage of the heat emanating from the light bulbs.

This sounds well on a warm day, but he may find next winter that the heat he gets from his extra illumination doesn't give the equivalent of even one thin sweater. His thermostat probably won't know how light it is.

If the ingenious reader lived in the days of the coal oil lamp, now, his idea might have more merit. On a hot night of a country vacation, where the mail comes in at supper time, there always arises the terrible dilemma—whether it is worse to sit beside the lamp—with the thermometer registering 100 or more degrees a couple of feet away from it, or waste valuable swimming or basking time next morning reading the news.

No More Lily Bulbs From Japan

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The American man-in-the-street hasn't begun to grasp all the dislocations that are developing as the result of a world at war.

I'm going to tell you what a comparatively minor one which nevertheless will affect every community in the United States. It is that on Easter almost every church in the country will be barren of Easter lilies and in the time between now and then weddings, funerals and religious ceremonies which ordinarily employ this symbol of purity as their chief decoration will have to look to some other flower.

The United States yearly imports 27,000,000 lily bulbs—almost entirely from Japan, though some previously came from Holland. This is 97 per cent of the country's annual consumption. The other 3 per cent is raised here, mostly in the Pacific northwest. This year, that 3 per cent will have to do, though it may be augmented somewhat by bulbs which florists already have on hand.

Even before the present freezing of Japanese credits which shuts off the supply completely, the lily bulb business had wilted. A New York florist recently appeared at the department of agriculture, wringing his hands. He had ordered 700 cases of Japanese lily bulbs. He had been notified that he could have 50. No reason was given. Whether the lily bulb crop in Japan is a failure this year or whether the Nipponese are too busy with their war efforts wasn't explained. Now, of course, this florist, who ordinarily handles 700 cases, will face a lot of his Easter customers without a bloom.

Solution Sought.

CONFRONTED with this situation, the department of agriculture has rolled up its sleeves and gone to work—and as a result, it's possible that in a few years the farmers of the South may have a new industry.

In its efforts to discover new crops for the country, the department's bureau of plant industry, at its experimental farm at Beltsville, Md., has been trying for years to develop an Easter lily bulb that would grow outside the small area in the Pacific northwest. An Easter lily bulb, in its growth season, divides into "scales" (about 50 to the bulb) and it is from these that the lily plant comes. So far, in this country, the bulbs have been subject to a malicious disease which either destroys the bulb altogether or prevents its division into scales. Whether the bureau has got a disease-resistant bulb that can be grown in great quantities is not positive, but with our whole supply shut off they are going to find out. Here's how:

From the old Farm Resettlement Administration, the Farm Security Administration inherited several big farms. One was Scuppernong farms, in North Carolina, near Cape Hatters and not far from Dismal Swamp. The other was Terrebonne farms in the Cajin country of the Mississippi Delta.

On these two farms, the FSA intends this summer to put out 10,000 hand-picked bulbs. It is a purely experimental effort, but if it is successful, it will result in a half-million scales and next spring, 500,000 more lilies—more than half the total of the United States' present crop. It would also give the country a big jump on a new plant industry—one that could be developed in the South where the farmers have suffered most and where farm relief has been the greatest burden.

One Real Fly.

THERE are two flies in the ointment of American production of Japanese lilies. One is just exactly that—an aphid—a member of that vast family of tiny winged bugs that prey on many fruits and plants and clutter up the street lights and even swarm into the houses on summer nights. It is this aphid that carries the virus which destroys the bulbs. The hordes of aphids being what they are, the only thing that can be done is to develop a disease resistant plant.

The other difficulty is to produce plants that can stand "forcing" (artificial heat treatment to bring them to bloom at the desired time) without "blasting" (destruction and even tearing of the petals as the buds burst.)

In any event, you can bet that the department of agriculture for the next year is going to have a sharp eye on Terrebonne and Scuppernong.

No Perfect Answers

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY wonder if they should have a baby. . . . These are such dangerous times. Everything's so uncertain—He's doubtful about that new job. . . . It means leaving home . . . taking up a different line. You never can tell—She can't decide whether or not to marry Al. . . . Of course he's a Perfect Dear. But she'd have to live way in the country . . . give up all her old friends. Suppose they weren't happy—?

Questions—problems—nagging at us constantly. I can't solve them . . . shan't even try. . . . But I can tell you one thing, partners. If you're looking for The Perfect Answer, you'd better quit pronto. For there "ain't no such animal."

THERE ARE NO PERFECT SOLUTIONS . . . NOR ANY 100% SAFE ONES.

THERE'S NO DECISION THAT DOES NOT CARRY WITH IT SOME ELEMENT OF RISK . . . SOME SEED OF SACRIFICE, DISAPPOINTMENT, HUMILIATION. And the reason's plain. Life isn't static. You can't work it out as you would a picture puzzle, adjusting its parts to one set pattern. Life flows. Life grows. Life changes. And in any decision we must leave room for that constant miracle of expansion.

"I want to do what's right!" you say.

Of course you do. But what is right? And what will stay right? You can't tell. The wisest and most consecrated make glaring errors. If you're going to hesitate until you're dead sure there'll be no kick-back, you'll wait forever.

The great thing is to do something, even if you can't be sure that it is the wisest thing to do . . . Then, having done it, back your act with all the courage, enthusiasm and energy you possess.

These statements sound simple enough for a kindergarten class and were once the very A-B-C's of our American way of life. Yet we're grown away from them in the last years. Perhaps our Success Code has misled us. We've been taught that "results are what count" . . . "stop, look and listen—then go ahead!" But if our pioneer fathers had stopped, looked and listened before they went ahead, they'd still be swabbing down the decks of the Mayflower.

"Failure"—we've grown more afraid of that one, small word than our grandads were of an Indian massacre. This country was built on heroic blunders . . . magnificent mistakes. But the wheels rolled on . . . and the laughter rolled back in a titanic chorus—the birth song of a nation.

THERE'S ONLY ONE FAILURE THAT CAN REALLY GET A MAN DOWN . . . AND THAT'S HIS FAILURE TO TAKE A CHANCE ON HIMSELF — AND LIFE!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Donovan May Head Civil Defense, LaGuardia Too Busy to Hold Post

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Colonel William Donovan has the inside track for civil defense administrator when Mayor LaGuardia steps out of the job.

The plan is to combine civil defense with Donovan's new office as coordinator of intelligence information. White House advisers consider that the two fit together and that the dynamic World war hero has the executive ability and experience to direct both.

Insiders expect New York's able "Little Flower" to quit as CDA as soon as his third term mayoralty campaign gets hot.

Few now recall that when LaGuardia took the post he said it might be only for a short time to get things started. He is amply equipped to run civil defense and his choice was widely approved. But the plain fact is that he hasn't the time to give the job what it requires.

It's full-time work, and then some. LaGuardia has been putting in about one day a week, and when he is in Washington he works at a furious pace. But even with his enormous driving capacity the job is too vast, requires a hand at the helm six days and even some nights a week.

While mayor of New York it is impossible for LaGuardia to devote that much time to civil defense. Next to the presidency, running New York City is the biggest public post in the country, and the Little Flower, quite rightly, permits nothing to interfere with his civic duties. It is inescapable that civil defense should suffer as a result.

Weak Assistance.

NOT helping the situation any has been LaGuardia's choice of assistants.

Inner administrationites raised their eyebrows when he installed in Washington as his right-hand aide Thomas Semmes Walmsley, one-time mayor of New Orleans and foe of Huey Long. Walmsley is charming and well-intentioned, but what he doesn't know about the problems of civil defense is plenty.

Also, when LaGuardia took over the agency he announced that state governors would be in charge of civil defense activities locally. This was good strategy to secure state co-operation. But then he turned around and started giving the assignments to mayoral friends about the country, which has irked the governors. Some of them have sent hot protests to the White House.

Meanwhile some members of a citizens co-operation committee that LaGuardia appointed are privately wondering what it is all about. Several weeks ago they were summoned to Washington for a "conference," staged in the White House and attended by Mrs. Roosevelt. The affair was surrounded with deep secrecy, but actually nothing took place and committee members departed for their homes completely mystified. The committee hasn't done a thing since.

Abrupt Shift.

THE peace mobilization pickets who quit their vigil in front of the White House immediately after Hitler invaded Russia, were not the only ones caught short by the war in the east. Equally embarrassed was Assistant Secretary of State Adolf Berle.

The brilliant Mr. Berle, who was Woodrow Wilson's chief adviser on Russia at the Versailles conference, has been about the bitterest Russian-hater in the state department—a place which specialized in Russian-haters. Last summer when Under Secretary Sumner Welles was trying to keep alive a patchwork friendship with Russia, Berle was a dyed-in-the-wool pessimist.

But the other day, talking to W. W. Lancaster, attorney for the National City bank, Berle made a revolutionary admission. Russia, he said, now could be considered the great hope of the world.

However, the assistant secretary of state still retains enough suspicion of Russian diplomats to give this warning to Lancaster, who is a friend of Soviet Ambassador Oumansky.

"I want you to know," said Berle, "that we know all about those conversations you're having with Oumansky."

Note: — Berle is nicknamed "Hap Hopper" of the State Department because unofficially he heads the Department's new detective bureau.

July Plane Figures.

PRELIMINARY July figures for airplane production show another backward month, the second since April.

Total of military planes produced in July was 1460—a drop of 16 from the June all-time high of 1476. In May the figure slumped below the April total, which was the record up to then.

Primary reason for the July decline, according to OPM experts, was a shortage of certain delicately calibrated flying instruments. The experts say that actually more planes were turned out in July than June, but without instruments they would not be completed for delivery.

Various reasons are given for this instrument bottleneck; shortage of labor, materials, new designs, lack of tools. The May slump was charged up to labor troubles. Whatever the reasons, U. S. aircraft production has yet to top the 1500-plus-month mark so confidently predicted by OPM moguls months ago.

However, the experts now prophesy a 1600 output this month—provided instrument deliveries come through. They base this on the backlog of unfinished planes in July, plus an increase in plant production. But, they admit, their guess may be wrong, as it has been in the past.

Negro Housing.

JOHN CARMODY, federal works administrator, took a trip to the Pittsburgh area to meet contractors in defense jobs. While there, he asked McKeesport, Pa., officials to show him the site of the new Negro housing development.

Bringing out a map, they pointed to a site on the shores of the Youghiogheny river. It looked very pretty—on the map. But Carmody is a realist. "Take me to the spot," he said; "I want to see it."

"Right here," said the officials. The spot they pointed to was under water.

They hastened to explain. "We're building a dam just above here, and the water will be kept under control."

"How long before you build the dam?" said Carmody.

"About a year and a half."

"Good Lord!" said Carmody. "And how much is this land—if you want to call it land—how much is it worth?"

"Five thousand dollars an acre."

Carmody turned upon them in amazement. "Wash it up!" he exclaimed. "Wash it up, we don't want it!"

And he transferred the Negro housing development to a new area of land away from the river.

Note: — Carmody is taking on increased power with every new defense development. Latest to come under his direction is the $320,000,000 appropriation for immediate construction of roads for national defense.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—You know, I sit here sometimes and look around and think, "This is a pretty comfortable room." . . . Not many other people would like it, I suppose, but it's just the way I like it. . . . It's just my style, and it's mine. . . . It's where I like to be, where I work, and the things in it have a personal significance that I wouldn't want to be without. . . . Some of those things, such as the book shelves and the desk, I made myself. . . . Others, such as the prints, the books, the clock, the guns, the fishing equipment, came from friends and people I think a great deal of, and I obtain a deep and abiding satisfaction by just looking at them, and picking them up, and getting the feel of them in my hands.

Please do not misunderstand me. . . . There's nothing here of any real material value. . . . That isn't the point. . . . It's just the way the room makes me feel. . . . I like to be in it. . . . It rests me. . . . I like to think that it reflects something of my own personality and that of my friends.

THE floor is covered with a deep maroon fringed rug. . . . Two of the guns were given to me by the Chief of Police in Omaha, Nebraska. . . . He took them off thugs. . . . Seven of the prints are watercolors and one is charcoal, and all reflect characters and episodes of the Civil war. . . . They were painted by Milton Caniff and Noel Sickles. . . . One of them shows Jeb Stuart and Sweeney, his banjo player, relaxed in their saddles, descending a hillside in the blue Virginia dusk. . . . Another is a grim episode in the formative years of the Sigma Chi fraternity. . . . Seven men, all Confederates, shrouded in flags and by a flickering candle hold an initiation ceremony somewhere in Georgia. . . . It was the last ritual for some of them. They were up and fighting by daybreak next morning, and four of them died.

The clock was a Christmas present from Kay Kyser, and on it is engraved the title of his theme song, "Thinking of You." . . . Above the clock, which sits on a desk, is one of the prettiest watercolors I ever saw. . . . It's a still life, a Louisiana magnolia, and it was painted by Katharine Harvey Roger of Covington, La. Almost everyone who sees it exclaims over it and says, "Where did you get that?" And I tell them.

THE books represent a purely personal selection. . . . There are about 400 of them, mostly history and biography. . . . One of the bookcorners used to be a doorway. . . . I took the door off its hinges and built the case to fit exactly into the door. . . . It has seven shelves, capable of holding perhaps a hundred books, and is held in place by two small screws. . . . If you release the screws, you can remove the case without the slightest trouble. . . .

As for the fishing tackle, it's all fresh water. . . . There are ten rods and a kit so fascinating that I can play with it for hours. . . . It used to belong to my best friend. . . . He is dead now. . . . Every time I catch a fish I pat the kit and say, "This is one for Stuart Maclean."

Well, excuse me for thinking out loud today. . . . I promise to be good after this—for a while, anyway.

A Farmer's Diary

The Price of Wheat

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I CAME along where a thresherman's tractor stood upon the bank lined up with a separator inside the barn. The outfit had just arrived that morning. It was after eight, but the field of shocks was beside a woods, and the dew was still on the straw. Ten men were seated about the big barn floor waiting for the day's work to start. Their teams, each hitched to a ladder wagon, stood along the old rail fence that enclosed the buildings.

"Used to be a man could raise what he pleased," I heard an old man say, as he spat over his white, stained beard, "and as much of it as he wanted. Nowadays, the government tells him what he dares put out and if he ain't done it, they'll come around with a chain and measure off what he should 'a left unplowed and charge him heavy for it. Things ain't like they used to be."

"'Pears like ou. freedom's gittin' away from us mighty fast," remarked a middle-aged man dressed in clean, washed denim, "why look—Inauguration Day's in January, not March 4th no more; Thanksgiving may come anytime in November; all they need to do is change the 4th of July and we'll lose our rights entirely."

Everybody laughed.

"They told me," said a little man with towsled iron gray hair, "that if I put more'n ten acres of corn, I'd get less lime. I wanted the lime, to grow clover, so I complied."

"But we were talkin' about the price of wheat," said a tall young newcomer, with a pitchfork in his hand. "Mebbe I'm the only one who figures that way, but I think the government is plumb within its rights. If it hadn't stepped in and planned things, we'd have 50c wheat right now."

"It was the surpluses made the trouble," chimed in another. "If every farmer'd try playin' fair and cooperatin' there wouldn't need be no penalties. Wheat's 95c at the elevator today, but the government will loan you $1.02 and if the price goes higher you'll get it all, but if it goes down, the government'll keep the wheat. Why, most of us don't deal that fairly with one another."

"But if you had surplus acreage, you can't even feed the unmarketable wheat to pigs and chickens," grumbled a thin lipped man in the background.

"Why no—that's to keep cheaters from hoggin' the market. They can't sell the wheat in any other form. I don't see nothin' wrong with that."

"Well, I still think," ejaculated a white faced man, "it might be better to have 50c wheat and let the thing adjust itself. We're losin' our freedom when the government tells us what to do."

"It might be better if each of us lived on a desert island—but we don't. It's like following the traffic signs—a man don't need to, but he takes a big risk. We oughta think more, read more and cooperate better," contributed another quiet farmer. "Ignorant people stand in their own light—then wonder why they can't see."

When I left, they were still hard at it.

GERMANS REACH BLACK SEA IN DRIVE, REPORT

Armored Forces Register Gains In Ukraine; French Give Darlan New Powers.

ing in making an orderly withdrawal before the new German offensive.

The official news agency DNB said that during patrol activity in the Kiev sector today German fighters had shot down 27 Soviet planes.

Observers pointed out that there was no assertion that the Russian retreat in the Ukraine was disorderly, and it was believed possible that the Russians were carrying out an orderly retreat which, if successful, would at least temporarily rob the German command of its main objective of "destroying the enemy."

Reds Claim Gains In Smolensk Area

MOSCOW—(U.P.)—German armored forces, unleashing their third great offensive of the war in an effort to score a decision before the early Russian winter sets in, struck powerfully toward Leningrad and Kiev today, but were reported thrown back some distance from Smolensk on the Moscow front.

Private Russian advices reported that the Red army had hurled back German panzer and infantry forces "some distance" from Smolensk on the road to Moscow, 235 miles distant, and a war communique described heavy fighting in that sector.

German forces also appeared to be attempting to close big pincers on Leningrad, second Soviet city, in the north, and Kiev, capital of the rich, agricultural Ukraine.

Darlan Heads French Armed Forces

VICHY, France — (U.P.) — Full power over the armed forces of France and the empire was concentrated in the hands of Admiral Francois Darlan today for purposes of "political synchronization" of French military effort.

The action, taken by the council of ministers, followed a visit to Vichy by Gen. Maxime Weygand, proconsul in North Africa, who returned to his post without attending the council meeting.

(The new powers given to Darlan, who has been regarded as anti-British, apparently would give him firmer control over Weygand's forces in Africa, which frequently have been reported favorable toward Britain.)

Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, who presided over the council meeting, arranged to announce by radio tonight a series of social and economic reforms including wage increases and changes in the status of labor. These will be immediately effective.

Minor cabinet changes also were authorized by the council, but they were regarded as politically unimportant and as failing to meet the demands of the German-controlled Paris press for a far-reaching shake-up, including the return of Pierre Laval.

The new powers put in Darlan's hands revived the war-time concentration of control over the army, navy and air force in the hands of a generalissimo. That was done, according to explanations here, to facilitate co-ordination of French military effort although it was emphasized that there is no specific idea of early or eventual military operations.

Expect 'Showdown' On Iranian Crisis

ISTANBUL — (INS) — The showdown on the Iranian crisis is a matter of days, if not hours.

Sir Hughe Knatchbull Hugessen, British ambassador to Turkey, held a long conference with Turkish Foreign Minister Sucru Saracoglu and the Russian ambassador on this subject today.

It was reported in Ankara that the British envoy to Iran had been in contact with the British foreign office all day long.

Meanwhile, two mysterious Germans who flew here on August 5 with false passports, and then rushed to Ankara, are now said to have gone to Teheran, capital of Iran.

One of these "mystery men" is reliably reported to be Admiral Canaris, high in the German intelligence service, the other is alleged to be an important Nazi gestapo chief.

The Turkish press is disturbed by the critical situation, caused by the pressure Britain, and probably Russia, are exerting on Iran. However, no government action is expected here when the British make their move.

It has been pointed out that one of the chief reasons for the German drive into the Ukraine is so they can punch through to the caucasus and the fabulous Iranian oil fields.

RAF Bombs Cologne In Daylight Raid

LONDON —(AP)— British bombers made a bold daylight attack on the big German Rhineland city of Cologne today, authoritative sources reported, while other great waves of British warplanes were attacking the coast of German-occupied France.

CALLS ON JAPS TO MAKE CHOICE

Britain Asserts Nippon Can Have War or Peace—Whichever It Wants.

made by Thailand herself and the Australian commonwealth should serve, to make the position triply clear.

"It should now be clear," he said, "that if Japan is trying to manufacture an excuse for entering Thailand and if she should do so, it will not only result in serious concern but will lay responsibility for war squarely upon Japan."

Thailand already has announced she will defend herself "even with poison gas if necessary" if attacked.

Every effort, it was emphasized, is being done to deter Japan from any aggressive action which it is felt would be found to plunge the Pacific into war and possibly involve the United States."

Japan Issues Warning To U. S., Britain

TOKYO —(AP)— The Militarist Daily, Kokumin, said today that the United States and Britain had been warned that any further anti-Japanese pressure by them would bring about "nothing but the worst situation" and that Japan will go ahead with grim resolve toward establishment of her sphere in East Asia.

Kokumin in its editorial said that especial emphasis had been given the warning to the United States. (At the same time authoritative quarters in London declared "if Japan wants war in the Pacific there will be war, if she wants peace, there will be peace.")

The paper, professing that Japan's policy is being worked out along peaceful lines and that she has no aggressive designs, urged that the United States approach questions of the Far East calmly.

Britain is putting forth "frantic efforts to cause friction between the United States and Japan" and is resorting to all sorts of moves to disturb the peace of the Pacific, said the paper.

At the same time Koh Ishii, cabinet information bureau spokesman, expressed concern over United States shipments of war materials to Vladivostok, Soviet Russia's Far Eastern port.

His statement came during a press conference in which he was asked what was meant by his use recently of the word "embarrassing" in connection with such United States shipments.

Ishii replied:

"Japan wishes that the United States would not send munitions. Japan desires peace in the Pacific and so Japan is watching such shipments with urgent concern."

Declare 'Australia's Safety at Stake'

MELBOURNE — (INS) — Amid warnings that "Australia's safety is at stake," Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced today that his cabinet had unanimously requested him to proceed to London for defense talks as soon as possible.

At the same time, it was announced that the Australian war council, representing all parties, will meet tomorrow

The sharpest warning was delivered by John Curtin, laborite leader, after a conference with Menzies and Arthur W. Fadden, member of the advisory war council.

"I put it as plainly as I can to every man and woman in Australia that the safety of this country is now at stake," Curtain said.

"We have been warring nearly two years and the scene is now moving even closer to our country.

"Under these circumstances, the duty of all of us is clear. We have to do everything humanly possible to organize our fighting forces and to dispose them in the right places. . . . Every man who is not fighting or training must work.

"Regardless of who we are or what we are, this is the time when Australia has the right to ask for loyal and devoted service from each and every one of its sons."

Robert P. Patterson

Col. William J. Donovan

Mentioned prominently in reports from Washington of pending changes in President Roosevelt's cabinet are Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson and Col. William J. Donovan, federal co-ordinator of information. One report says Patterson will succeed Henry L. Stimson as secretary of war while Col. Donovan will replace New York Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia as director of civilian defense and co-ordinate the two agencies. Another report slates Patterson as the successor of William Knudsen and Sidney Hillman in the Office of Production Management and names Donovan as secretary of war.

Knox Weighs Offer To Turn Kearny Yards Over To Navy

plans "lying ready on the desk" to take over the plant if the company did not alter its stand.

At the heart of the dispute is the union's insistence on a contract clause providing that a union member must maintain his union membership in good standing if he is to continue as an employe.

The national defense mediation board recommended such a clause, along with increased wages. The company granted the wage boosts but balked at the maintenance of union proviso.

The national railway mediation board yesterday offered its services to the management and employes of the nation's railroads, in an effort to avert a threatened strike which would tie up a major portion of the country's freight facilities.

The board arranged a conference to be held at Chicago Thursday to discuss the demands of union railroadmen for wage increases affecting approximately 1,150,000 workers. Spokesmen for the carriers assert that the wage demands represent a potential payroll increase of about $900,000,000 a year—a boost which they declare would place an intolerable burden on the railroads.

The U. S. conciliation service has invited representatives of the Mack Manufacturing company, Allentown, Pa., and striking CIO employes to a Washington conference Friday to discuss the wage dispute which brought on the walkout.

The strikers contend that the company has refused to agree to make Aug. 4 the retroactive date for a demanded increase of 15 cents an hour in wages. The current wage scale ranges from 64 to 95 cents an hour.

VOTE HERE TO BE LESS THAN 2,500, BELIEF

Election Booth Workers Have Easy Day as Only Trickle of Voters Enter.

Second ward, Precinct H, Rep. 4, Dem. 7, registration 400.

Democrats were to choose between Fred M. Bushnell, former postmaster, and James F. Orr, typewriter dealer, for a candidate to oppose Republican Mayor William J. Locke at the November election.

Democratic voters throughout the city were called upon to decide only one other contest, that in which four candidates seek three councilmen-at-large nominations. George L. Berg, Harry M. Emmons, Lester D. Hunter, all incumbents, and Herman P. Speas are candidates for these positions.

Councilman Arthur L. Croak and Stanley L. Wilburn are battling for the Sixth ward councilman nomination while Councilman Jacob J. Kutschall was attempting to hold off Michael A. Mihalick in the Fourth. All contestants are Democrats.

Only in the Sixth Ward did the Democrats show any impressive lead over the Republican vote, polling about 2½ votes for each Republican. Although the Fifth ward showed a high Democratic vote, many Republicans were turning out to cast complimentary ballots.

Today's estimate of 2,500 votes would be less than half of Mansfield's last primary in 1939 when 5,762 votes were cast. Democrats polled 3,778 votes then while Republicans turned in 2,284.

Republicans without opposition include: Mayor Locke; W. C. Mansfield, council president; Dean A. Eckert, city treasurer; Lydon H. Beam, city solicitor; Roy Vaughn, George Kyle and James R. Anderson, council-at-large; Russell D. Porch, First ward council; C. N. Shultz, Second ward council; William Ogings, Fourth ward council; and Paul W. Bush, Sixth ward council.

Unopposed Democrats include: Howard G. Miller, council president; Earl K. Troll, city treasurer; Leslie K. Wagner, city solicitor; W. F. Feigenbaum, First ward council; Joseph Foncannon, Second ward council; Richard H. Wynn, Third ward council; and Fred Miller, Fifth ward council.

Today was primary election day in many Ohio municipalities but a lack of important issues was expected to reduce the balloting to its lowest ebb in years.

The secretary of statae's office reported that about 75 cities—one fourth the eligible number—were balloting.

Interest centered, chiefly, in the mayoralty races. Mayor Lee D. Schroy, seeking a fourth term, headed the Republican ticket at Akron, while Walter J. Coyle, former city editor of the Akron Times-Press led the Democrats in his first political venture. The vote was expected to be between 5,000 and 10,000 as compared with 39,000 ballots cast last year.

Eight candidates, including the colorful Veteran Gen. Jacob S. Coxey, were in the field at Massillon. Canton had six mayoral candidates including Republican Mayor Edward Folk, but a light vote was anticipated.

Barn Burned As Electrical Storm Strikes City, County

cars collided on Sturges avenue shortly before 10:30 p. m. Autos driven by Coretta Hazel Sprunger, 238½ North Main street and Donald C. Cameron, 151 Sturges avenue, were damaged in the crash, but neither driver was hurt. They told police they were blinded by the rain.

Lightning struck a chimney at the home of T. V. Park at 435 Tremont street and a traffic light at the corner of Orange and Wayne streets.

Electrical service was interrupted for just a moment after the storm struck in the city but several rural residents complained of temporary inconvenience from lines blown down by the strong wind or struck by lightning. Ohio Public Service company workers were called out for repair work in the rural sections of the county.

Lightning struck a dairy barn near Youngstown accounting for a $75,000 loss. The building was owned by the Dean-Hill Dairy Co. and housed two $1,000 prize Jersey bulls.

Firemen from Canfield, Boardman, West Austintown and North Jackson helped fight the flames.

Youngstown was without lights more than an hour after high tension wires were downed. Elyria also was in darkness 48 minutes.

Trees, telephone lines and light wires were blown down in many parts of the Cleveland district.

Radio Station WHK went off the air for 23 minutes after lightning struck the tuning house on one of its three towers in Seven Hills village.

Passenger plane flights were downed at Cleveland.

Yesterday's temperatures were highest in Southwestern Ohio. Cincinnati had 99, Sidney, 94; Jackson, 84, Wilmington 92; Circleville, 93.

Other highs around the state were Napoleon, 95; Lima, 93; Ashland, Norwalk and Columbus, 90.

Scattered rains and a high wind broke the heat briefly in Cincinnati last night.

DRAKE-HUFFMAN VOWS TO BE HELD SUNDAY

St. Luke's Lutheran Church Will Be Scene of Nuptials Instead of First Lutheran As Was Previously Announced.

DUE to redecorating at the First Lutheran church the wedding plans for Miss Marjorie Drake and Richard Huffman have been changed. Their nuptials had been scheduled for the First church but will now take place before the altar of the St. Luke's Lutheran church on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 17, at 3:30 o'clock.

Miss Drake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Drake, Lawn avenue, South Boulevards, has been feted at many lovely parties during the past few weeks. She was recently entertained with a linen shower given by two close friends, Miss Eva Hager and Mrs. Morrison Boyle at the latter's home. The evening was spent in making a bride's book and prizes were won by Miss Helen Lanzen and Miss Eileen Minard, who presented them to the honoree.

Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with dainty flowers and tiny sprinkling cans in the shades of pink, yellow and green. At a late hour Miss Drake was given many balloons which when broken disclosed verses directing her to the hiding places of her shower gifts. The hostesses presented her with a wedding gift.

Tonight Miss Eileen Minard will be hostess for a party honoring Miss Drake.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I had scored one point in my planned deflation of Mary. That was plain, as she obediently straightened her body, walked back to the chair she had left and sat down, turning a sobered and intent face toward me. There was no more flippancy left in her for the moment, although I knew that her volatile temperament would not keep her serious for long.

"I am going to take full advantage—perhaps an unfair one—of what you have just said," I began, "for I feel that I should be failing you if I did not give you this warning."

Mary Accepts Rebuke.

"In the first place, Mary," I said, "I think it is time you grew up."

Involuntarily her head jerked upward, and her delicate skin was suffused with scarlet from her throat to the roots of her hair.

"I deserve that," she muttered, and fell silent again.

"Yes, I think you do," I said implacably and went on.

"If you were unmarried, the performance you staged with Stephen Redfield this evening—I am choosing my words carefully; it was a clever piece of acting, not an exhibition of real sentiment—would have been your own affair. Although in my opinion it was in execrable taste, offending all canons of good breeding, I should never have presumed to call you to account for it."

She stirred, opened her mouth to speak. But I gave her no chance to utter the words of protest, or of acquiescence.

Assures Her of Noel's Love.

"But you are married," I went on, "to a man who adores you, and whom you dearly love. I grant you that he is over-sensitive, far too jealous to be the husband of a popular actress, and given to violent rages. If these things are too much for you, then, for both your sakes, you ought to dissolve your marriage."

"Dissolve our marriage! Auntie Madge, are you crazy?"

"No, my dear," I returned coolly, "but I have wondered since I came here if you had taken leave of your senses. I realize now that you are still in your right mind. I gave you that piece of impertinent advice purposely, and you reacted to it as I hoped. But—"

I paused again, and looked at her steadily.

"But," I repeated, "if you do not wish to end your marriage, or seriously endanger your marital happiness, you will never again be so unfair, so unsportsmanlike, so cruel as to humiliate your husband publicly, in a crass exhibition such as you gave tonight with Stephen Redfield."

Her face was brick red now, and I decided that I could furl the lash and lay it away.

"That is all I have to say about this, dearest," I concluded, wondering if she would resent the endearment, or welcome it. "And I never shall refer to the subject again."

"You won't have to," she said with real contrition in her voice. "I didn't realize—yes, I did, too, but I was so sore at Noel for acting the way—the way—"

Her voice trailed away limply, and I knew full well what was the matter. Before her marriage I had tried to instill into her mind a precept my own mother had given me. That it was echoing in her brain I knew, when she looked at me with troubled eyes.

"Do you remember," she asked, "what you told me before my marriage, about discussing my husband even with my nearest and dearest relatives or friends?"

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Aug. 13.

A moderately successful and active day is read from the lunar and mutual configurations. While industry, sound ideas and steady development of them along routine lines should flourish, yet there may be some new, original and worthwhile flashes of an inventive or scientific turn, which may increase their importance and draw the attention of capital or public endorsement. Large corporations or influential groups may be found ready to support, but this calls for discretion and precaution, as intrigue, treachery and insincerity menace. Jealousy and competition might incite to underhand maneuvers from so-called friends.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly successful year through their own brilliant, creative and original ideas, supported by sound tactics, hard work and common sense. These should assure co-operation from certain interests with capital for development. At the same time public bodies, groups or secret organizations may be disposed to manifest jealousy, rivalry and underhand methods. Keep alert to duplicity, betrayal and entangling alliances in both private and business affairs, and all should thrive and bring enduring rewards.

A child born on this day will have much originality, inventive powers and ambition, backed up by sound methods and traits of character. Its perseverance, industry and worth assure lasting success, although subject to betrayals.

Do Men Like Courage In A Woman

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Women know very well that other women can be brave.

But the question has always been: Should men be allowed to know this, too?

For, of course, women want men to approve of them and love them. That's the way the world is run. But what idea of themselves should they try to impress upon the other sex?

We shall have to face the fact, I think, that in this, as in other matters, fashions change. Long before any of you were born, girls attracted men's attention and their love by presenting themselves as almost impossibly weak. In those days, a girl on the lookout for a beau laced herself almost to the gasping point, limited her activity to a little fancy work and fainted at dramatic moments.

Later, when women went out into the world to earn their livings, men found that a girl could be attractive and capable at the same time. But for romantic purposes, she mustn't be too capable. That is, it wasn't usually the forewoman or the buyer or the boss' secretary who appealed most to the sentimental love.

The biggest hit was often made by the brave little girl who tried to work hard and support her crippled mother, but couldn't quite make it. She had to be rescued, the pretty creature, just as she had lost her job and her crystal tears were drenching the unpaid pile of doctor's bills.

Now we're in another era. It's a warring world, and perhaps that's at the bottom of the change. Girls have completely discarded all that weakness and semi-weakness that they once assumed because men liked them that way. They have now come to the point of admitting that they have nerve and muscle, of proving this publicly and of winning lovers on the strength of it. That's the interesting point, and there is the cue that many of you who may not yet have decided on the line you're going to take may wish to follow.

Here is Ernest Hemingway, the handsome and romantic writer of best-seller, whose books show that he knows all about life and love and danger and who is said to have chosen his recent bride, Martha Gellhorn, because of her courage and daring.

Miss Gellhorn was a correspondent during the Spanish war, a few years ago. She followed to its very end an exhausting and dangerous pack trip which was almost too much for the men correspondents who also undertook it. Watching the cool way in which she met this ordeal and triumphed over it, Hemingway is said to have exclaimed, "There's the girl I'm going to marry!" And he did. Now they're off together hunting up further dangers.

Now that I mention it, you can easily think of other cases. There's the 18-year-old girl bullfighter, Conchita Cintron, of Tijuana, Mexico, who is acknowledged to be as dangerous to bulls as any man could be. She can dispatch a big animal, "Spanish style," on foot, and in the very same day slaughter a second one while mounted on a galloping horse. Beautiful, fearless, expert at her perilous trade, do you imagine Senorita Cintron lacks for suitors? And her admirers are of two races, for the little senorita is half American by birth.

These are extreme examples. If you have a good safe job, I hope you won't give it up with the idea of becoming a bullfighter. There are plenty of other ways of showing initiative and bravery. The next time you go hiking or motoring with your boy friend, and strike a snag of some sort, don't be a dead weght. Help out all you can. It will interest him. He'll know you're even a better girl than he dreamed.

GOOD POINTS COMBINED

Many contracts depend mainly upon handling some one important feature of the play correctly, but more of them on a combination of sound points. The declarer who has several chances to make mistakes, but avoids each and every pitfall as it is reached, is usually the one who reaps a rich reward in the average tournament, in which he is striving to outplay other people on the same deal.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT

North's 2-No Trumps was sound enough, in place of 2-Diamonds, in view of those two kings, to make sure that the lead would come up to, not through, his hand if it got played in No Trumps. Perhaps 4-Spades would have been more conservative after hearing the spade rebid, but this identical bidding came at two tables of a duplicate tournament in which the rival Norths were striving for extreme tops. One of them fumbled the ball, but the other ran for a touchdown.

In each case East led the club 4, South playing low and West putting on the Q. Then came the differences. One North took this trick with the K, cashed two high spades and led a third to West, who returned his club 8. Declarer let East hold this with the J, and the club 3 knocked out the A. Seeing only eight immediate tricks—two in clubs, two in diamonds and four in spades—he decided to seek another in diamonds. So he cashed the diamond K and finessed the diamond J to East, who won with the Q, scored two more clubs and his heart A, setting the contract two tricks.

The other declarer let West's club win the first trick and took the return with his club K. He scored two spades and gave a third to West, who had no club left, so returned his heart 2 to the 10 and A. East then knocked out the club A. This declarer then cashed one low spade and the heart K, then led the diamond J toward West. East covered with the Q and the K won. Then came the last spade, the 5, and West was squeezed. He needed his diamond 10-9 to prevent the A-6 from taking two tricks, but he also needed his heart Q to down the dummy's heart J. So this North made 5-No Trumps.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. North-South vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Diamond, West 2-Hearts, North 3-Clubs and South 3-No Trumps on this deal, how should West figure out the sound defense?

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

"Pooh, pooh, Purdue," said Mansfield's new tennis champion, Bob Spear, to me. "Whoever told you I was No. 1 man at Purdue."

"Why, that must have been Thornton Moore who gave me that choice bit of misinformation," I told him. "And what does that big 'D' on the sweater stand for?"

"That," he retorted, "stands for nothing else but rah, rah, for old Depauw."

The above conversation may be somewhat fictitious, but it could have happened, brother, it could have happened.

But don't you ever care, Robert. DePauw, Purdue, what's the difference? So long as you're No. One Man there and IN MANSFIELD, too!

I'll never be a tennis fan, by heck,
The game gives me a pain in the neck.

And there are a lot of stiff necks among the galleryites who watched the week-end championship play in The News-Journal city tourney at Johns park.

Their heads were using their necks for a pivot as their eyes followed the ball back and forth across the net. A moving picture of the crowd would have shown a fine example of mass perpetual motion as heads swung back and forth and necks twisted to and fro.

* * *

My neck twisted to so energetically on one occasion it hasn't been able to twist back to fro again.

So, if I seem to list a bit on the port side, blame it on those racqueteers.

I haven't had so much neck exercise in a long time. Honest!

* * *

This tennis is my system wrecking,
I can't stand that kind of necking.

* * *

"That Bob Spear is really playing a great game of tennis right now," declared Veteran Vic Alderson.

"Do you know that after his singles match with Bob Keefe Saturday I had to fill up 49 holes in the court where his cut shot had been biting into the dirt.

"No wonder Keefe couldn't return those shots. They never got off the ground."

The tennis players appear unanimous in declaring that this year's tournament was the best they've had in years in the smoothness with which the schedule was maintained, and in the sustained interest which the tourney developed.

And they say The News-Journal has done more to develop tennis interest this year than any organization has done before. For which we are very happy to take a bow, but plenty of credit must be given to Vic Alderson and Thornton Moore for seeing to it that the schedule of the tournament did run smoothly, and that players were on hand for their scheduled matches.

Alderson deserves an extra pat on the back for putting the Johns park courts in the fine condition they were for final play.

Bob Feller Seeking 21st Win

Faces Tigers as Tribe Fights For Second Spot.

DETROIT—(AP)—Manager Roger Peckinpaugh sent Bob Feller and Al Milnar against the Tigers today as the unhappy Indians fought to protect their second-place lead in the run-away American league race.

Trailing New York by 13½ games, the Redskins now face a battle to hold their margin over Boston and Chicago. The Red Sox are two behind and the White Sox 4½.

* * *

The double-header was created yesterday when rain washed out the opener of a two-game series. The Tribe leaves tonight for a two-day stand in St. Louis, winding up the western tour with three tussles in Chicago.

Feller is seeking his 21st victory and Milnar his ninth. The big southpaw has not started a game since July 20.

Clarence Campbell has received his draft questionnaire but he does not expect to be called before the end of the season. He is 24 and unmarried. He is playing center field in place of Roy Weatherly, currently in disfavor with Peckinpaugh for missing signals.

The Dodgers bashed down hard on the New York Giants yesterday, 15-7, and the St. Louis Cardinals conquered the Chicago Cubs, 7-5, to continue their neck-and-neck race with the Dodgers still in front by the slender margin of .003.

* * *

Kirby Higbe pitched and batted the Dodgers to their triumph, his 16th. He checked the Giants on seven hits.

The Dodgers took charge in the first inning with seven runs, three of them on Ducky Medwick's 15th homer and two on a single by Higbe with the bases loaded.

The Cardinals likewise nailed down their victory early, taking a 6-1 lead in the first four frames, but it took a magnificent relief pitching performance by Harry Gumbert to save it for them. In the fifth Lon Warneke was pelted for successive home runs by Phil Cavaretta, Stan Hack and Bill Nicholson. Then Gumbert hurried on the scene and pitched no-hit ball for 4⅔ innings.

In the only other National league contest the Phillies whipped the Boston Braves, 6-3.

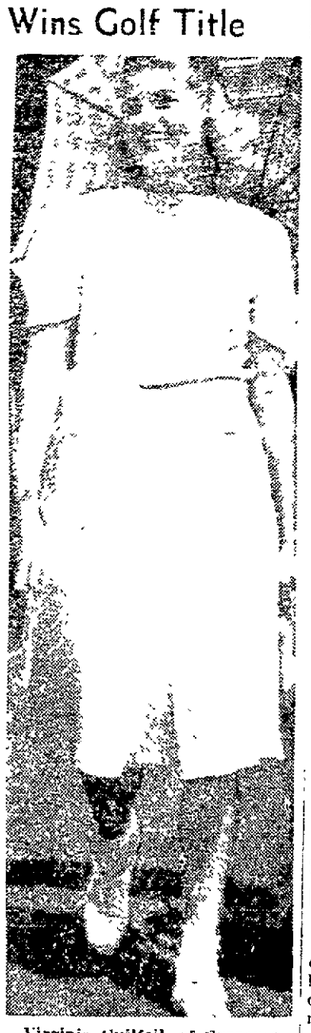

The listless New York Yankees, so far in front of the American league that few people pay any attention to them, were shut out, 8-0, by the Boston Red Sox as Jack Wilson pitched four-hit ball for his first complete game of the season.

Boston made 14 hits. Dominic DiMaggio supplied three, including a homer.

The wave of "beanings" during the week-end brought on a fight as part of the doubleheader between the St. Louis Browns and the White Sox at Chicago. In the first game Elden Auker smacked Joe Kuhel on the shoulder with a pitch. One word led to another and then to fisticuffs. Players on both teams rushed out and Alan Strange of the Browns joined in the sparring. All three were banished.

The White Sox went on to win 14-9, with Luke Appling batting in five runs in leading a 14-hit attack. The Browns captured the nightcap, 10-3, with a 17-hit assault for George Caster's first victory of the year

FREAK BALL GAME THURSDAY CANCELLED

That Westinghouse-Mansfield Braves' softball-hardball game Thursday night at the Fairground is off.

Robert Richards of the Westinghouse personnel department announced today the game had been cancelled because of the fact that several of the Westinghouse players are on vacation.

Heavy Rain Saves Braves

Tiffin Had 6-0 Lead In Third Inning.

The rain came down in sheets and sheets and pillow cases, too.

The Mansfield Braves weren't very tired, but they were very happy to see this phenomenon of nature last night at the Fairground, for they were trailing the Tiffin Mud Hens 6-0 in the last of the third when old Jupe Pluvius cut loose with one of his choicest offerings.

Pat Patterson had taken his sore arm out of the chiropractor's baking oven to see what he could do about pitching a baseball, but Pat had very little on the apple and against the hardest hitting club in the Ohio State league his stuff was far from effective.

* * *

Tiffin got four runs in the first inning on five hits, but all of the markers were unearned after Bobby TeStruth booted a double-play ball that would have retired the side scoreless.

The Hens chalked up two more in the second on a pair of walks, a double and two singles.

Mansfield had three double plays in the three innings, two of them from Morse to TeStruth to Siegbert and one from Ankrum to Morse and appeared on their way to a record in this department.

But the game didn't last long enough to be official and all records go by the boards, robbing Harry Siegbert of a two-base hit, and also Kenny King and Daniel Boone.

The Braves found themselves more crippled than ever today. Eddie Mutryn went home to Cleveland yesterday with a broken thumb and probably will be out for the season. Tim Mangan has a painful row of potatoes on his catching hand due to long and continuous service behind the bat, and it may be necessary for Manager Alex Clowson to relieve him in the catcher's job and send Tim to right field.

With Graf Moore long counted out for the season, and with a five-man hurling staff including two sore-arm flippers, the Mansfield club is hardly in shape for a stretch drive, but they're still determined to win that second-half flag in the Ohio State league.

SEEDED STARS GET PAST EARLY HURDLES

NEWPORT, R. I.—(INS)—Seeded stars were safely past early hurdles today as the second day of the annual Newport Casino tennis tournament began.

Top-seeded Don McNeill was ready for the third round after sweeping through Arthur Prochaska, of Hartford, Conn., 6-3, 6-3, in the first round and Blair Hawley, New York, 6-0, 6-3, in the second.

No Fisticuffs Boys, You'll Get Tossed

When two Brooklyn Dodgers' players were hit by pitched balls thrown by Dick Errickson of the Boston Braves in the same inning of this game at Brooklyn, the whole Dodger team ran out on the field as pictured, ready to swing it. But quiet heads prevailed and the action was limited to a fanning bee. In the picture we see Dolf Camilli, Dodger first baseman who was one of the two beaned, talking to Braves' Coach Kelly, upper left. Manager Leo Durocher, No. 2, and an umpire try to restrain a couple of Dodger players. Manager Casey Stengel of the Braves, No. 32, stands by quite harmless.

NEW YORK — (The Special News Service)—The 1941 Football Guide will be off the new publisher's presses and ready for sale Aug. 24 . . . We've had a peek at an advance copy and can tell you the pictures alone will be worth your four bits . . . The Eddie Blunt-Bill Poland fight Aug. 27 at Washington is the longest scheduled heavy-weight fight in two decades . . . It's for 25 rounds, and the worst part is it might even last that long . . . Here's one (and only one) time the Phillies are first. Danny Litwhiler was the season's first National leaguer to hit a homer in every park in the circuit.

DOING IT UP BROWN

San Antonio baseball writers, who were a bit disgruntled that their club didn't get more help from the St. Looey Browns, have learned why . . . When Carthage (Mo.) the Browns' other farm, wired: "We need two pitchers, two infielders, two outfielders," back came another wire: "So do we."

NO SERVICE CHARGE

The response to last week's appeal for plans to stage army camp football games has been gratifying . . . One of the best comes from Bill Scanlan, of the La Crosse (Wis.) Tribune and the Notre Dame publicity dept. who points out the first crying need is for equipment, and suggests that colleges contribute what they have left from last season . . . Ford Frick says that major league clubs will play a lot of exhibition games at the big southern army camps next spring

They won't make any money on them but it's a swell way to build up future trade—the draft and defense jobs have taken so many bi-state league umps that utility players may be called on to work some games.

SHORT SHOTS

Ace Parker's busted gam has mended so quickly that he'll be on hand to greet the football Dodgers when they start training tomorrow and may play in the opening game . . . The other American league clubs can't keep hating the Yankees. In a week's road tour, the Yanks drew 123,000 customers and had three sellout crowds . . . The California boxing commission held a solemn meeting a while back to ask promoters why their fight shows weren't drawing better . . . Mike Jacobs will ask $30 for ringside seats for Louis-Nova . . . That's the highest price since the Baer-Louis affair, which wasn't worth it either.

Squad Picked To Face Pages

Geiger or Fullager Get Mound Chore.

Manager Frank Beeber of the Mansfield All Stars today announced the squad who will face the Ohio State champion Toledo Page Dairy softball club tomorrow night at the Fairground at 8:30.

* * *

Either Jim Fullager or Aid Geiger will go to the mound for the stars, and the rest of the lineup will be selected from: Ed Henrich, Harry Ross, George Hummel, Harold Aston, Bob Boyd, Willard and Ken Lockhart, Joe Lesch, Al Stickler, Nick Weber, George Berry, Gerald Shafer and Pat Patterson.

Because local softball teams have been broken up to make the all-star outfit, efforts to book a preliminary game have fallen through, and the time of the feature attraction has been moved up from 9 o'clock to 8:30.

The Mansfield club expects to put up a real battle against the Dairies, who have won the state championship four times in the last six years.

Manager Beeber has directed Mansfield teams to several district championships and once to the state finals.

Amateur Qualifier Draws Few Entries

CLEVELAND—(AP)—One of the smallest fields in years will battle over the Manakiki course Thursday for three places allotted the Cleveland district in the National Amateur Golf tournament.

* * *

Only 10 players will attempt to qualify for the Aug. 25-30 classic in Omaha, Neb.

* * *

Dick Whitmore, secretary of the Cleveland District Golf association, gave three reasons for the low entry list—distant site of the tourney, selective service inroads into the field of golfers and business taking up more of the players' time.

DYKES WOULD SIGN AGAIN WITH SOX

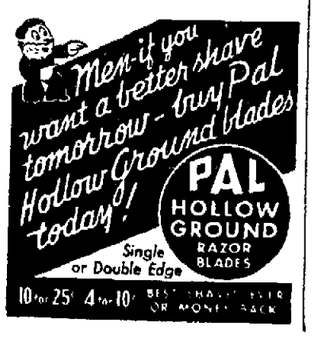

CHICAGO—(INS)—Manager Jimmy Dykes of the Chicago White Sox indicated today he has no intention of changing jobs at the end of this season. If it is "convenient" for Mrs. Grace Comiskey, owner of the Sox, Dykes said, he will drop around to her office this week to sign a new contract.

Dykes refused any comment on reports he has had a managerial offer from the Detroit Tigers, except to say he was mystified why there should be so much interest in whether he signed a new contract with the Sox at this time.

THISTLEDOWN RACE MEET GETS STARTED

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The long-postponed Thistledown race meeting gets under way today with the Whirlaway handicap, a $1200 mile and 40 yard event for three-year-olds, heading the program.

The 41-day meeting originally was scheduled for July 1, but was set back to provide a lengthy extension of the meeting at the Detroit fairgrounds.

Midget Racers File Entries

Four Nights of Auto Races Booked at Fair.

With every race driver in the country receiving advanced information for the Richland County Fair races to be held on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of the fair week, starting Aug. 19th, some of the best midget auto race drivers in the business have written in for motor specifications, rules and regulations which will govern the eligibility for entering their cars in the races. The fair board has posted some fine purses for the four nights of racing under the flood lights, and the prize money which will be at stake will receive one of the fastest fields of midget race cars ever presented at any track in this part of the country.

Drivers from California, Texas, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Indiana and nearly every state in the union have made inquiry about the four big nights of racing.

First to file entry in the midget races is Kip Young, Muncie, Ind., race driver, who has entered a Cragar special and has been a constant money winner on the midget tracks at Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis and Milwaukee during the season.

Yachtsmen In Semi-Finals

Put-In-Bay Regatta Battles Southeaster.

PUT-IN-BAY— (AP) —The 48th annual regatta of the Interlake Yachting association swung into the semi-final stage today after a thrill-packed opening program.

A stiff southeaster, at times reaching 20 miles an hour, zipped the sail yachts around the nine-mile course in fast time and rain squalls gave the crews of 178 competing boats some anxious moments.

The Noreg, one of the speediest six-meter boats on the lakes, is on the bottom between Middle Bass and South Bass islands. Owned by Gordon Saunders of Detroit, the craft went aground on Middle Bass before the storm hit and sank in 40 feet of water while being towed to harbor.

Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Vermilion, Sandusky, Port Clinton, and Erie (Pa.) clubs divided honors in opening events.

MANSFIELD MOOSE HOLD SECOND SPOT IN LEAGUE

Mansfield Moose kept their hold on second place in the Moose Traveling league as they defeated Lorain 4-0 in a tilt at Prospect park Sunday.

Aid Geiger kept the visitors in check throughout the tilt, striking out eight, as his mates pounced on the offerings of Kovach for four runs.

CHANCES BRIGHTEN

The 225-pound former Cleveland Rams tackle signed with the Bulls yesterday.

Rams Hunt Elusive Half-Back

Beefy Club Boasts Powerhouse Squad.

By LARRY HAUCK

BEREA —(AP)— Studious Dutch Clark strolled among his beefy Cleveland Rams today hunting for a fast, elusive half-back to climax the goalward drives of the 1941 Cleveland Rams.

Plenty of power runners and a massive group of linemen were in the squad of 33 huskies on hand for the club's second workout but their coach still seeks a slick ball-carrier to help out pass-minded Parker Hall at the tailback spot.

Owen Goodnight, from Hardin-Simmons college, drew plenty of attention as the drills progressed. He carries the reputation of being a strong all-around back.

Tony Gallovich, a much-publicized runner from Wake Forest, is due to report later in the week and may fill the spot.

Meanwhile Clark has little to worry about in the way of experienced men in the secondary. In addition to the brilliant Hall, he has Johnny Drake, all-league fullback last fall; Corby Davis, the former Indiana All-American; Marty Slovak, the Toledo speedster; Len Janiak, former Ohio U. star; Gaylon Smith, Dante Magnani and Glenn Olson.

The starting quartet probably will be Hall, Drake, Davis and Magnani, the only holdover wingback.

Clark is counting on Ray Prochaska of Nebraska's Rose Bowl eleven to bolster the end corps.

The center spot looks safe with experienced Johnny Haman and Red Conkright on duty and Warren Densmore of Toledo signed.

Ram supporters grow most enthusiastic about the line prospects. Five veteran tackles—Chet Adams, Moose Dunstan, Stan Anderson, Boyd Clay and Fred Shirey—are making it tough for a rookie to break through. At the guards Barney McGarry, Riley Matheson and Hank Rockwell are back.

A promising crop of newcomers headed by Jack Gregory of Chattanooga and Bill Reith of Carnegie Tech should plug any gaps.

The Rams have three weeks to get in shape for the opener Sept. 3 in Cleveland Stadium with the College All-Stars.

Five Run Barrage Stops Humphryes

The Mansfield Tires softball club defeated Humphryes 12-3 in a Commercial league tilt last night.

The Tires came from behind to tie the game at three-all in the second and unleashed a five-run barrage in the fourth that put the game safely away. They tallied again in the fifth and sixth to run up their final margin of 12-3.

Wentz poled two homers for the victors, leading his club at bat with three out of four. Hipp and Shivinski led the losers.

Tappans club won by a forfeit from the Farm Tools in another scheduled league tilt.

CHAPTER II

When the plane came down at LaGuardia field, Curt DeWitt's chauffeur Mike stood beside his limousine nearby. Curt assisted April from the airliner, carrying her bag and taking her arm as they walked down the gang plank.

"Here's Mike, "he said waving to the man who had been his first chauffeur, and Mike touched his cap. His florid Irish face lit with a friendly grin.

Then April saw Hill. She was so amazed she stopped dead in her tracks, He stood swaying on his feet a few feet away, taking in the scene with puzzled eyes. April said under her breath:

"There's my husband. Wait a second.

Curt DeWitt recognized the large blond man as the one time golf champion and one glance told him Kent Hillyer had been drinking heavily.

"Steady," he pressed April's arm fleetingly. "I'll stand by."

April walked over to where Kent stood, with shaking knees.

"Hello, darling!" he greeted her with a great show of hilarity. "I just dropped 'round to see if you didn't want to go out and cel'brate. Thanks for the mem'ries and all that stuff. How's about it?"

April's first impulse was to mother him as she always had. To take care of him and see that he got back to his own apartment all right. But cold reasoning and Curt DeWitt's presence close by kept her from giving in to her feelings.

"No, Hill," she said not quite steadily, "I have other plans."

"I can see that," Kent glared in the direction of DeWitt. "It didn't take you long to find another man, did it?"

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," April told him steadily.

Hill raised his hat:

"Well, thanks for the mem'ries an' all that stuff. I'll be seein' you in the papers, darling."

April turned and walked away, her heart pounding coldly. When she got into the car, Kent stared after her in hurt disbelief.

Humiliation burned in two pink spots in April's cheeks. Her lovely chin raised a little higher, and she sank into the luxurious upholstery of the DeWitt limousine with a defiant toss of her beautiful head. She was almost in a mood to celebrate!

When she arrived home in Douglaston in the wee' sma' hours of the morning, April had learned a great deal more about Curt DeWitt. He was a perfect gentleman, she decided. Charming, gallant, a brilliant conversationalist, a divine dancer and apparently had all the' money in the world. She was very grateful to him when she held out her hand at the door:

"Thanks terribly," she smiled tiredly. "Youve been very kind."

"Put me at the top of your list of escorts," he held her hand tightly, "any time you want to go places. I'd like to help you through these first deep waters, my dear. If I may?"

She nodded, feeling tears in her throat. Gay, standing by the window in the sunrise was astonished to see the limousine drive up and April get out and walk up to the door with a dark handsome man who stood for several minutes holding her hand. April had orchids on her shoulder.

"Well," she said aloud, "that makes sense. I never would have believed it."

Gay dreaded spoiling April's celebration with the news it would be her unpleasant duty to impart. And she was more than sorry that another burden was to be added to April's slender shoulders.

For in the other twin bed in Gay's room slept April's nineteen year-old problem sister, Cherry Lind. Cherry had left college, broken her engagement to Pat Hastings, and arrived the afternoon before with the announced intention of living with April and becoming a model.

Cherry always meant trouble.

On second thought, Gay decided not to tell April of Cherry's arrival until she had some rest. She hoped April wouldn't go into her room and see the lovely blond sleeping there.

When April turned her key in the lock and saw Gay, she was surprised to find her up at the crack of dawn.

"Darling!" she smothered her old friend in a warm embrace. "You shouldn't have stayed awake for me."

"I slept awhile," Gay kissed her pale cheek. "But I was too excited about your coming home to stay in bed. Who's the man? What is this? Tell me everything! What have you been up to?"

"Wait a minute," April laughed. "Let me catch my breath. How's my baby?"

"Super," Gay said. "He has missed you terribly, and he was very excited last night when I told him you'd be home when he woke up. But he's in perfect health."

"I suppose if I open his door at his hour, he'll awaken and never go back to sleep. I'd better wait a few minutes," April restrained her desire to see Kenny with difficulty.

"I'll make some coffee," Gay said. "Come out in the kitchen where we can talk. Are you terribly tired?"

"Not very," April followed her. "I should be though. I've been dancing at just about every club in town."

Gay shook her red head.

"I never would have believed it, darling. I still don't get it. But it's the smartest thing you've ever done. I was sure you were the martyr type. Did you meet your fate in Reno?"

"On the plane this afternoon," April confided. "A pick up, you might say. But it all came about in a very charming way, and he's a perfect gentleman. He's Curt De Witt, president of Sherlock Steel."

Gay almost dropped the coffee percolator.

"The man who owns that magnificent colonial house we've admired so much out on Pitman road?"

"That's right. He's divorced too, and has a daughter Penny, 12 years old, who lives with him."

Gay chortled. "I hope Hill hears that you went out and celebrated your first night home. I guess that would sort of take the wind out of his sails. He's so sure you'll never look at another man."

April lost her assumed air of gayety.

"He does know," she said. "He was at the airport. I've never seen him so overboard. He must have been drinking for days. "Wanted to celebrate our new freedom."

Gay looked surprised. "Tight? That's something new. At least I'd give Hill credit for having too much intelligence to try to drown his sorrows."

"It isn't like him," April sighed. "I'm so worried. Suppose he goes out and gets himself into some kind of a mess. I'd never forgive myself."

Gay said grimly: "There you go! I hoped after you had the sense to divorce the guy you'd stop mothering him to death. He isn't your worry any more, darling."

"I know," April swallowed the lump in her throat. "But I suppose it's going to take me a long time to feel divorced. I was so terribly married for six years."

They talked for awhile of the trip to Reno, of the things that happened while April was away, and after they'd had their coffee April could restrain herself no longer from going into Kenny's room.

She opened and closed the nursery door softly, but when she knelt beside the bed of her son and kissed his bright little cheek he opened his eyes and cried joyfully:

"Mommy! Did you get home, Mommy?"

April smothered him with kisses and he clung to her so tightly that she could scarcely get her breath.

NOSE PICKING
May be a Sign of
WORMS
Don't blame your child! It looks like just a nasty habit, but it may mean that ugly, crawling roundworms are starting trouble inside the child right now. Other warning signs are: "picky" appetite, fidgeting, uneasy stomach, itching seat.
Anybody, anywhere, can "catch" roundworms! If you even suspect your child has them, get Jayne's Vermifuge right away! It's America's leading proprietary worm medicine. Scientifically tested, and used by millions for over a century.
Jayne's expels stubborn worms, yet acts gently. If no worms are there, it is just a mild laxative. Demand Jayne's Vermifuge.

THEATERS

Musical Comedy.

Ann Southern in "Ringside Maisie" opens Wednesday at the Ohio. "Moon Over Miami," Technicolor musical spectacle, continuing today presents Betty Grable, Robert Cummings and Don Ameche in a rollicking story concerning fortune hunters in the glamour part of the city. Aided by Carole Landis and Charlotte Greenwood, Betty Grable sets herself up in a pretentious bungalow to capture a wealthy husband before a small inheritance runs out. New tunes and dances are introduced in the show by the headliners augmented by the Condos Brothers.

Stewart Starred.

"Navy Blue and Gold," featuring James Stewart, Florence Rice, Robert Young and Lionel Barrymore headlines the Madison bill starting Wednesday.

Leon Errol in "Hurry Charlie, Hurry" is the companion attraction. The popular Bumstead family takes a fling with the upper crust in "Blondie In Society," the current attraction, with Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Sims. "Underground," the second feature, is a thrilling story showing the methods used by the oppressed people of Europe to overthrow dictatorship. Jeffrey Lynn, Philip Dorn, and Mona Maris are in the cast.

Comedy Attraction.

"The Bride Wore Crutches," with Lionel Stander, Lynne Roberts, Robert Armstrong and Edgar Kennedy is currently showing at the Ritz. The second production, "Double Date," features Edmund Lowe, Una Merkel and Peggy Moran.

Underworld Conflict.

"Rags to Riches," showing at the Park, concerns the fight of one man against a far-flung underworld organization. Alan Baxter plays the role of a young taxi driver seeking revenge after being railroaded to prison on false charges. Mary Carlisle, Carol Patrick and Jerome Cowman are in the supporting cast. Loretta Young presents a fashion show of the 1870's in "The Lady From Cheyenne," the co-attraction. Playing the role of an eastern school teacher seeking fortune in the west the star is supported by Edward G. Arnold, Robert Preston and Gladys George.

SPECULATION CURBED AGAIN BY JAP RIFT

Stock Market Held Down To Narrow Movement By Cloudy War News.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market again apparently had no place to go today and leaders, consequently, shifted uneasily in a restricted area.

Action of the administration in putting curbs on installment selling depressed some of the finance company shares. Beneficial Industrial Loan which edged into new low ground for the year and Commercial Investment Trust and Commercial Credit slipped.

Once more, brokers said, the speculative urge was restrained by the growing rift between the United States and Japan, cloudy German-Russian war news and fears spreading governmental controls would eventually hit earnings of many corporations.

A constructive market straw was seen in the Federal Reserve compilation disclosing commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of member banks in 101 cities for the week ended Aug. 6 increased $40,000,000 to a new peak for the move at $6,087,000,000.

Boardrooms expressed interest in the department of commerce announcement that June income payments to individuals aggregated $7,650,000,000, a jump of 12 per cent over May.

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.
